What's going on with WAYN Radio ???

For those who are unaware, WAYN Radio is Wayne State University's official student run internet radio station. WAYN Radio has been in existence for well over 40 years, and has taken the campus by storm, literally. But over the years students, faculty, and staff have come and gone; leaving the station in the hands of new blood in an attempt to resurrect the station. In the fall of 2008 new management was appointed and the station changed drastically for the better. Now in 2011, its safe to say, WAYN Radio is Detroit's premier college internet radio station and has a track record that can compete with Michigan broadcast professionals. To date, WAYN Radio has broadcasted more than 250 student produced shows, with original news, talk , and music formats. Local, national, and international music recording artist, poets, writers, musicians, engineers, lawyers, dancers and actors have been featured in at least one show on the station, which has made WAYN Radio a success in that realm. Currently we are in a position to make some drastic changes that can benefit Detroit's music scene – so on that note, WAYN Radio signs off to begin work on our next chapter!

BEHIND THE SCENES

Have you always wanted to know who is behind the scenes working, day and night to make WAYN Radio purr like a kitten? Wonder no more! Gary Cendrowski, WAYN Radio's Professional Advisor, who is also the Sr. System Administrator for the College of Fine Performing and Communication Arts. Gary's extraordinary expertise has landed WAYN Radio some prudent equipment, that has carried the stations' existence thus far, along with the kind donations from the department. Always humble and willing to help at all times Gary has made WAYN Radio a once in a lifetime experience for many students .

FEATURED SHOWS: "THE SUSIE AND DORIE SHOW AND WARRIOR NATION"

A special shout out to The "Susie and Dorie Show," with radio personality Susie Woods and Adorable Namigadde both journalism students, writers of the South End newspaper and radio interns, Not only did susie and dorie talk politics and current news but they made those subjects cool. While giving personal opinions on current issues they kept the content tasteful and entertaining.

Eric Taylor hosted the "warrior nation" and what a delight his show was. Every week Eric featured a student from Wayne State making a positive impact, and calling the segment "The Face Of Wayne." then ending his show with "This Or That," making guest choose between two popular items- ie. pc or mac!!! WAYN radio salutes both shows.

Faculty Leadership

Kevin Piotrowski, Senior Communication Officer at the Irvin D. Reid college and instructor for the WAYN Radio course, gives students, who are interested in broadcast a push into the deep end.

"This class has greatly enriched and enhanced the Wayne State University students who are seeking careers in Journalism, and Broadcast Journalism"

Students register for his class expecting a weekly lecture, to their surprise, they end up having to solve problems before learning all the shortcuts. Instructor Piotrowski believes a student can only learn by doing and by doing repetitively they become masters in no time. Mr. Piotrowski is certainly a "teacher who cares," and has been a faculty figure for WAYN Radio for a numerous of years.

Behind the scenes with Abenaah Hill and Steve Lehane

On air talent to business manager, now Station Manager of WAYN, Abenaah Hill has shown her commitment and love for what was once just an organization, now is recognized as WSU's official college radio station. While maintaining this position for the past four years, Abenaah has also been the event coordinator for all WAYN's major concert events and conducted workshops for the stations' new on air talent. But do not underestimate her rap sheet; she has played the role of producer, radio marketer, and public relations officer to get a specific task done. Abenaah's unbelievable work ethic exudes all expectation and she continues to support WAYN Radio's creed.

General Manager, Abenaah Hill and Sunni former host on WJLB & Channel 955

Music Technology student and head Producer for WAYN Radio, Steve Lehane, has been an amazing asset to the college radio. No only has Steve grown throughout the semesters at WAYN, but has contributed his expertise to the stations' expansion which enabled the station to adapt an internship program for futures music technology students. Because of Steve, WAYN radio has a production quality that can compete with producers in all fields. Thank you Steve and Abenaah!
